

JOHN PELANT

Vice President, Global Product Delivery
Carlson Wagonlit Travel

John Pelant, who joined CWT in 1991, is a member of the North American executive team. He leads product delivery for all functions, ensuring products are successfully delivered to quality, on time and on budget, and is responsible for ensuring efficient and cost effective management of resources to maximize productivity for the business.

He previously served as Vice President, Global IT Operations, successfully leading the NORAM and Financial product delivery teams, which transferred with him to his new role. Previously, he served in a variety of leadership positions in the IT organization, including data center operations, field IT support and technical application support. Through his strong background in IT best practices for processes and development methodologies, he has successfully led both global and regional organizations.

Based in Minneapolis, John reports to Andrew Winterton, President, Global Suppliers, Products & Technology, with a dotted line to Håkan Ericsson, President, CWT North America and Latin America.
