Carlson Wagonlit Travel Announces the Retirement of Executive Vice Presidents Rob Deliberto and Scott Guerrero

MINNEAPOLIS, February 16, 2009 — Carlson Wagonlit Travel (CWT), a global leader specializing in business travel management, today announced the retirement of Executive Vice Presidents Rob Deliberto and Scott Guerrero. While each is now retired from their official position, both will continue to assist CWT with specific initiatives during 2009.

Rob Deliberto began his travel industry career in 1980 before joining Carlson Travel in 1990 as Vice President and General Manager of the East region. During his time in that role, Rob increased sales and revenue year-over-year and was instrumental in the high retention of clients and employees, including guiding both groups through the transition in 1997 when Carlson Travel merged with European company Wagonlit Travel to create Carlson Wagonlit Travel.

In 2000 Deliberto was promoted to Executive Vice President of Client Services for CWT North America, where he was responsible for all sales and account management as well as the CWT Solutions Group - Americas. In his most recent role as Executive Vice President of Global Supplier Yield Management, Deliberto led the development of yield management and advertising strategies and was responsible for maintaining mutually beneficial relationships with airlines, hotels, and car rental suppliers.

In addition to being a member of the first graduating class of the Carlson Executive Leadership program, Deliberto received Carlson's "No Borders, No Boundaries, No Limits" employee recognition award and was honored as a Carlson Fellow in 2003. He has represented CWT within the travel industry as a member of the Board of Directors of the National Business Travel Association (NBTA), and since 2005 has served as Vice President of NBTA's Allied Leadership Council. Deliberto will continue to represent CWT in that capacity until his term expires in August 2009.

"Rob has played a key role on the NBTA Board for four years and has always represented his company, his colleagues, and his industry with distinction," said Bill Connors, NBTA Executive Director and Chief Operating Officer. "In addition to his support and service, which have helped NBTA grow in many areas, Rob is simply one of the kindest, most decent human beings with whom I have had the pleasure of working."

Scott Guerrero has dedicated more than 35 years of his career to the travel industry, with more than 30 years at Maritz Corporate Travel (MCT), where he served in numerous leadership roles across a broad spectrum, including international business development, consulting, operations, purchasing, product marketing, meetings and events, accounting, and technology.

Guerrero joined CWT through its 2004 acquisition of MCT, where he first served as Vice President and Chief Operating Officer and was later promoted to President of CW Government Travel (CWGT) in the Americas. In this role, Guerrero successfully led CWGT's strategy, sales, service, and operations activities.

When CWT acquired SatoTravel in 2006 as part of its purchase of Navigant International, Guerrero was chosen to lead the integration of the CWGT and Sato teams to form

CWTSatoTravel, a premier supplier of government-dedicated travel management services. "I'll always be grateful for Scott's leadership and commitment to excellence as we integrated the military and government divisions of CWT and Navigant," said Kelly Kuhn, President, CWT Military & Government Markets. "As former competitors, Scott knew that joining the two companies would have to be handled with the appropriate care and sensitivity for our employees and our clients. His commitment to integrity and shared success played an integral role in shaping the combined organization that CWTSatoTravel is today."

Guerrero's industry achievements were recognized in 2004 when he received the Association of Corporate Travel Executives (ACTE) President's Award.

Jack O'Neill, President, CWT North America, said Deliberto's and Guerrero's respective contributions have left an indelible mark on CWT and the travel industry as a whole. "The professionalism and integrity Rob and Scott have demonstrated over the years provide an outstanding example to the many colleagues who greatly respect them," O'Neill added. "They will each be missed professionally and personally, but I know they will enjoy the opportunity to spend more time with their families and friends. On behalf of the entire CWT family, we wish Rob and Scott all the best that retirement has to offer."
